

Access Statement

Introduction

The Mayfield House Hotel sits in peaceful countryside near Britain's oldest town Malmesbury, a short distance from the capital of Cotswold's Cirencester, and has welcomed many hundreds of guests through its doors over the years.

At the time of construction and its re-development to a hotel over 30 years ago the criteria for accessibility were different to those in place today, therefore some of the facilities may not meet current building requirements – however our commitments to improvement has led to many changes to improve accessibility and our plans for the future will improve accessibility wherever possible.

Of our 28 bedrooms we offer 8 on the ground floor and 2 Best Rooms which have been specifically rebuilt as "Disabled Friendly".

The following statement is a summary of our provision. If you have any specific questions please feel free to call us and we will endeavour to help. Other information can be found on our website and in our brochure.
